

NW courses: Plenty of golf courses to choose

Looking for a place to play you have never played before like Lake Wilderness (right)? See a complete list of northwest courses inside.

No shortage of great resorts in the Northwest

The Pacific Northwest is home to some of the top resorts in the country. For a listing of all of the golf resorts, please see Page 6.

Pacific Northwest Golf Guide

If the calendar says March, it must be golf season in the Pacific Northwest. After a winter filled with just about any kind of weather Mother Nature could offer, it's time to dust off those golf clubs and head to the course and practice range.

Inside Golf Newspaper is ready for the golf season and would like to get you ready as well with this special section that includes just about everything you want to know about golf in the Pacific Northwest.

Inside this special issue you will find information like the courses in the NW, to resorts, to RV friendly courses and more. And you will see listings of great places to play like Circling Raven in Idaho (left), Glendoveer in Portland (lower left) and Wine Valley in Walla Walla (lower right).

The 2020 golf season is here. It's time to play some golf.

Professional tours ready to hit the NW

The professional golf tours will again make their appearance in the Pacific Northwest in 2020 with several events. The WinCo Foods Portland Open (far right) will be held Aug. 6-9 at Pumpkin Ridge's Witch Hollow Course. The PGA Champions Tour's Boeing Classic (near right) is set for Aug. 21-23 at Snoqualmie Ridge Golf Club. See inside for more on the professional and amateur events for the 2020 golf season.
